Art Unit: 1742

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1, 2, 4, 7, 8 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO99/14399 (WO'399).

WO'399 discloses the invention substantially as claimed. WO'399 discloses a conversion coating method comprising:

providing a chemical conversions coating upon a substrate;

wherein the chemical conversion coating agent comprises at least one of an additional compound selected from a group comprising zirconium, tantalum and fluorine (page 5, lines 23-28) ; and an amino containing silane group compound that falls within the group as claimed by Applicant, establishing a prima facie case of obviousness. (page 5, lines 10-21).

WO'399 further discloses wherein said agent has a pH of less than 5 (page 6, lines 20-24), overlapping Applicant's claimed range establishing a prima facie case of obviousness.

WO'399 further discloses wherein said additional compound is added to the agent in amounts which overlap the range as claimed by Applicant, establishing a prima facie case of obviousness.

WO'399 further discloses additional material added to the conversion coating that fall within Applicant's claimed invention,

4. Claims 3, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 15 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO99/14399 (WO'399) in view of Wada et al.

WO'399 discloses the invention substantially as claimed (see paragraph 3 above).

However, WO'399 does not disclose wherein the agent further comprises an accelerator.

Wada et al. teaches in the same field of endeavor that accelerators including compounds as claimed by Applicant can be used in conversion coatings to improve the effect of the coating upon the substrate.

Art Unit: 1742

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use an accelerator as taught by Wada et al. in the invention of WO'399 in order to improve the effectiveness of the coating upon the substrate.
